

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A plurality of resources are managed that are used in simulations. Resources are associated with two or more different resource sets. The resource sets are then associated with one or more different simulations. The resources may include electronic document images, application program components that execute from within other applications, animations, and web pages.